

FOULSTON HIRES 2023 SUMMER ASSOCIATES

May 22, 2023

Foulston Siefkin LLP welcomes Cameron Edens, Andrew Foreman, Nicholas Kaechele, Jordan Miller, Molly Morgan, Quan Nguyen, and Grace Vogel as 2023 summer associates. Summer associates are law school students who have completed their first or second year and join the firm to gain experience through mentorship and hands-on legal work between semesters.

The 10-week internship provides exposure to different types of law practice, research and writing assignments, and feedback from mentors and partners, as well as social and networking events to introduce associates to the firm and the community. Foulston's summer associates will work in the firm's Wichita and Topeka offices. The students join Foulston from Washburn University School of Law, University of Kansas School of Law, Washington University in St. Louis School of Law, and University of Iowa College of Law.
