KANSAS LEGISLATIVE INSIGHTS NEWSLETTER | FEBRUARY 18, 2022

WEEKLY RECAP

This week, Kansas House and Senate Committees scrambled to finish hearings and passing non-exempt bills before the Feb. 24 house-of-origin deadline. The last-minute non-exempt bills recently introduced had only a one-week window to be heard and considered. Senate President Ty Masterson completed his reshuffling of Senate committees after last week's demotion and removal of three Senators from committees.

This week, two separate lawsuits were filed by the ACLU and Loud Light over the Congressional redistricting map. Additionally, the Senate Redistricting Committee announced it is ready to accept Senate map proposals. The Senate committee was informed that maps with districts with 5% population variances are constitutional.

This week, both chambers had relatively light debate calendars. On Tuesday, the Senate approved SB 200, allowing pharmacists to test and treat influenza, streptococcal pharyngitis, and urinary tract infections. The Senate also approved several changes to the insurance code for risk-based capital and updating the Captive Insurance Act. The other measure approved would update the terminology for hearing impairment to "deaf or hard of hearing." On Wednesday, the House debated House Concurrent Resolution (HCR) 5014, adding a constitutional amendment to the November ballot which allows a simple majority vote of the Legislature to overturn rules and regulations by state agencies. On Thursday, the resolution failed (80-33) to receive the necessary 84 votes. With 12 members absent due to the snow, there will be a motion on Monday to reconsider HRC 5014. It is expected to receive the necessary two-thirds vote to pass.

COMMITTEE ACTIVITY

The House Water Committee held four days of hearings on HB 2686 (mega water bill) and the committee started discussion on the bill this morning. It creates the Kansas Department of Water and Environment and includes comprehensive changes to Kansas water policy. House Water Committee Chair Rep. Ron Highland says HB 2686 is the culmination of a year's worth of discussions and concerns relative to groundwater management districts. The committee is slated for continuing discussions for Monday morning. An in-depth explanation of the bill's proposed changes is here.

On Tuesday, the House Transportation Committee heard HB 2609, allowing restricted driver's licensees ages 15 to drive to and from worship services for any religious organization. In addition, the committee heard HB 2628, expanding the definition of reckless driving to include operating a vehicle at a speed of 40 miles per hour or more over the posted speed limit. Kansas Highway Patrol Superintendent Herman Jones testified that this is a growing problem in Kansas and the Midwest with more than 3,200 Kansas violations last year alone – triple the number three years ago. Both bills passed the committee on Wednesday.

Senate Utilities Committee Chair Sen. Mike Thompson acknowledged this week that there was no support in his committee to advance SB 323, SB 324, and SB 353. SB 353 would have required that wind turbines be sited at least a mile or 10 times the height of the turbine from an adjacent property line. It would limit the decibel noise of the projects to levels the industry says are impossible and prohibit any shadow flicker on nonparticipating landowners' property. SB 323 would have allowed property owners to terminate their contracts with an energy company if a wind or solar project has not operated for at least three years. SB 324 would void lease agreements with landowners after five years if a certificate of site compatibility or a conditional use permit has not been issued.

The House Health and Human Services Committee conducted two days of hearings on HB 2281, implementing "988" as the suicide prevention and mental health crisis hotline in Kansas. On Thursday, the committee voted 10-5 to table HB 2463 (prohibiting changes to the Medicaid program Managed Care Organizations) until the Attorney General rules on the legality of the bill.

On Thursday, the House K-12 Education Budget Committee approved HB 2662, with a parental bill of rights giving parents more supervision over information their children are being taught. It is the first bill addressing critical race theory in either chamber to reach the floor. One amendment added on Thursday requires teachers to give advance notice if discussing issues involving sex, gender, race, or religion. The shorter Senate version is SB 496, which was heard in the Senate Education Committee on Wednesday.

The Week Ahead

Monday is the last day for non-exempt bills to be considered by committees. Tuesday through Thursday, both chambers will be on the floor debating bills to meet the Feb. 24 turnaround deadline for bills in the house of origin. The Legislature is off Friday to take a long weekend before returning to session March 1. First adjournment is April 1.

BILL INTRODUCTIONS

TAXATION

Sub. SB 318 – As recommended by the House Committee on Taxation, Rep. Adam Smith, Chair, would create a sales-tax exemption for purchases necessary to reconstruct, repair, or replace a fence used to enclose agricultural land that was damaged or destroyed by a wildfire, flood, tornado or other natural disaster occurring on or after Jan. 1, 2021.

SB 339 – As amended by the Senate Committee on Assessment and Taxation, Sen. Caryn Tyson, Chair, would amend law related to sales tax.
