Protecting Your “Stuff”: How to Keep Your Information Safe

Daniel Buller, Holly Dyer, and Kyle Steadman

You’ve got stuff. You’ve got other people’s stuff. Your stuff is valuable. You don’t want anything to happen to your stuff. Spend an hour covering a variety of legal tools available that help us keep our stuff safe, from trade secrets acts to data privacy rules. Topics which may be covered (time permitting) include updates regarding:

- The Computer Fraud and Abuse Act and recent appellate decisions limiting its scope
- Uniforms Trade Secrets Act and Defend Trade Secrets Act
- Data privacy and cybersecurity laws and guidelines
- Nondisclosure and noncompetition agreements
- Handling of electronically stored information
